A Sign You Care

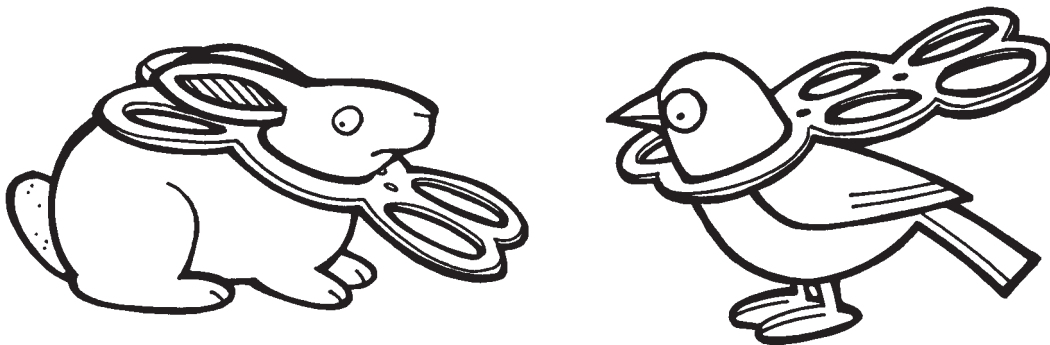

We have all seen them. Chances are, there is one in your home right now. What are we talking about? Plastic six-pack rings. They are handy to hold soft drinks together. But once we throw them away, they can become a problem for animals. The sign on this page explains why.

Color the sign and cut it out. Tape it to your trash container at home. It will remind your family to snip six-pack rings before tossing them.

Be a Snip—It's a Snap!

Animals often get stuck in plastic six-pack rings.
When they do, they can get hurt or die.

It takes only a minute to cut the rings apart.
Before you toss plastic six-pack rings in the trash, snip each circle.
The critters thank you!
